Tass Denounces France For Atomic Test Blast

By DAVID MASON

PARIS (AP) — France's third atomic test explosion Tuesday set off sharp criticism of the French drive to become a world nuclear power.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the blast in the Sahara was a blow to disarmament hopes and defied the wishes of the United Nations. Communist East Germany called the test "a crime against humanity."

Japan, the only nation ever hit by wartime atom bombing, prepared a formal protest as it did after the first test Feb. 13 and the second April 1.

Scientists said the device was smaller than the first two. French sources reported the latest test is designed to help build tactical nuclear bombs and the atomic trigger for the big hydrogen bomb. But officials indicated France still has not perfected an operational weapon.

There was no immediate official comment from France's allies. In the past there has been Western criticism of President Charles de Gaulle's nuclear tests, which it is feared may lead to the rise of small nuclear powers and complicate already difficult efforts at nuclear disarmament.

The third French device—named "Red Jerboa" after a little desert rodent—was exploded on a tower at the Reggane testing range, deep in the Sahara.

Radioactive fallout, a communique said, presented no danger to African populations. The fallout area was said to be about 60 miles long and 15 miles wide, extending southwestward from the firing range. African nations on all sides of the Sahara have expressed alarm over the tests.

Tending to confirm the weak fallout of the bomb was the fact that at least two foreign airlines offices in Paris were not informed of any special flight restrictions in the Sahara area, as they had been on the two previous tests.

Officials said the bomb was of several kilotons in power. A kiloton is equal to 1,000 tons of TNT. The first French bomb was of 70 kilotons and the second was considerably smaller. The first atomic bomb, made by the United States in World War II, was about 20 kilotons in power.

French sources said the steady move toward smaller atomic devices indicated a two-fold goal—creation of small tactical nuclear

$3,500 Gift For Operation

Rickey May Get His Chance

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP)—Rickey Bethany, 12, may get his chance to play football, after all. "He loves football," Rickey's father said. "He has one that he tosses around. Of course, he can't really play. And he knows it."

Rickey's life is threatened by a seriously enlarged heart. But a belated $3,500 Christmas gift from groups and individuals has brightened his future.

In 1959, doctors in Chicago's Children's Hospital performed a delicate operation on the boy's heart. It cost $5,000. And though much of the money was paid by the Crippled Children's Fund, the Bethany family used up its savings and credit.

Bethany is a newspaper distributor and has three other younger children. The youngest, Robert 6, suffers from meningitis.

After the operation, doctors told Bethany that prospects for Rickey's future looked dim. But they said they had done all they could.

Later, Bethany said, doctors told him Rickey must have a second operation to save his life and they wanted to try a new method. "It was pretty much of an experiment," Bethany said. "but they said he figures he'd try anything that might help his son and so the family again sought to raise another $5,000. Aid from the Crippled Children's Fund paid part of the cost, but it left them shy about $2,000."

That's the way things stood until two days before Christmas. Bethany and his wife wrestled with the problem.

Bethany told his story to the Meridian Star. A story and a picture ran on the front page.

On Christmas weekend, the gifts poured in. One anonymous donor put up $2,000. A dozen Meridian residents put up smaller sums. The paper donated $50. A thousand dollars came from the National Foundation. A $250 gift came from the Easter Seal Society.

At the week's end, Bethany had $1,500 more than he needed. The extra money, he said, would go to the National Foundation.

The operation is scheduled for January.

Writer Says He Rigged TV Shows

NEW YORK (AP)—A 73-year-old Los Angeles free-lance writer claimed Tuesday that he rigged more than 40 "It Could Be You" television shows from 1956 to 1958, writing "scripts" and supplying "the people to play the various parts."

The Ralph Edwards' organization, which produced the show, and the National Broadcasting Co. issued denials of knowledge that the show ever was rigged.

The claims of rigging are contained in an article in the current issue of the magazine, Confidential, signed by Al Blake, "It Could Be You" is a daytime audience participation game which has been a fixture on the National Broadcasting Co. network since May 1956.

Edwards Not Named

Blake does not say that Edwards himself knew what was being done on his show and he specifically exempts host Bill Leyden and announcer Wendell Niles from knowledge of the rigging.

Edwards, in a statement released through NBC, said: "I emphatically deny that I had any knowledge of any misrepresentation of facts which Al Blake now claims were included in the material he submitted to the 'It Could Be You' show, according to his article in Confidential magazine."

"I personally have never met the man," Edwards continued. "Furthermore, my company has affidavits from the producer, Stefan Hatos, and his present staff of researchers and writers denying that they in any way were in collusion with Blake. Never did he at any time state to staff members that he was manufacturing the situations as he stated in the article."

NBC issued a statement asserting that the program "has been subject to continuing scrutiny" by its Department of Standards and Practices since the department was formally established in the fall of 1959 (in the wake of the quiz show scandals).

Checked by Network

"As part of this continuing examination," said the network statement, "It Could Be You" has been checked periodically since late 1959 and this checking has revealed no instances of irregularities or improper procedures."

NBC added, however, that it is now "making a specific investigation of allegations concerning 'It Could Be You' for the period of 1956 to 1958 to obtain any new information that might be pertinent to supervision of the show."

Blake said he was given a $25 "advance" for each "script" plus a TV set and a gas range. He says he wrote a part for himself on the program when he needed a new refrigerator. "I even shed a few tears over the return of my father's 'Civil War' diary" that they "surprised" me with," he wrote.

One of his scripts backfired, Blake said, when a relative of a participant threatened to expose the program as phony. Blake says he first sought, through a lawyer, to collect back money he considered due, but, when this failed, tried picketing the show in October. Finally, he gave the story to the magazine, he said.

Edwards' organization also produces "This Is Your Life."

New Regime Mapping Accelerated Space Plan

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A top-level conference at the home of President-elect John F. Kennedy produced word Tuesday that the new administration plans "a very vigorous and accelerated program" for conquering space.

The incoming president also intends to forge a stronger, more competent diplomatic service by appointing "more career men and fewer politicians to be ambassadors."

The intentions were announced by Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson at a news conference culminating two days of far-reaching, intertwined discussions on space and State Department problems.

In line with the agreement on picking career men to serve in key embassies—a question which involves giving them enough money for expenses—Charles E. Bohlen figured prominently in speculation by U. S. ambassador to Paris, Career man Bohlen is a former ambassador to the Soviet Union and the Philippines now serving as a State Department expert on Soviet affairs.

Kennedy put in a varied day at his seashore villa.

He reached into the Missouri State Highway Department and got its chief, Rex Whitton of Jefferson City, for the $20,000-a-year post of federal highway administrator. Whitton is 62, has been with the Missouri department 40 years, and now will run a $3-billion federal program which embraces completion of a 41,000-mile interstate network.

Kennedy sat down for a chat with W. Averell Harriman, former diplomat and New York governor, to get a report on a trip Harriman made to troubled Africa. Harriman served as one of Kennedy's foreign policy advisers during the campaign.

The consultations on space and the diplomatic service brought together Kennedy, Johnson, Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla., and Rep. John J. Rooney, D-N.Y.

The members of Congress reported that Kennedy's father, Joseph P. Kennedy, engaged in the discussions occasionally. He contended during the campaign that the Eisenhower administration had let the United States fall behind the Soviet Union in this field and something had to be done about getting the country into first place.

Johnson now is head of the Senate Space Committee—a position Kerr will take. Kennedy has asked Johnson to become chairman of the National Aeronautics and Space Council in their new administration.

The vice president-elect told newsmen that Kennedy "is determined that America go ahead and occupy her proper leadership" in the exploration of space.

NASA To Report All Space Shots

NEW YORK (AP) — In a change of policy, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration will release full information on all future space shots.

The change was announced Tuesday by Dr. T. Keith Glennan, administrator.

NASA has been issuing advance data on launches and experiments, but not for release until the launch was attempted.

Dr. Glennan said the new policy was intended to give the public more information about space experiments, and to stress the experimental nature of each new step.

Connally Named Navy Secretary

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy Tuesday named John B. Connally Jr. of Fort Worth, Tex., a close associate of Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson, to be secretary of the Navy.

Connally managed Johnson's unsuccessful bid for the Democratic presidential nomination that went to Kennedy. He also served Johnson in earlier years as an administrative assistant in the House and Senate. He managed Johnson's successful Senate campaign in 1948.

A Texas attorney for more than 20 years, Connally is 43 and a decorated World War II Navy veteran.

Kennedy said that Connally's "background and ability eminently suited him for the position of secretary of the Navy, a post to which he will bring dedication and experience."

During the war, Connally went into the Navy as an ensign and served in the office of Navy Secretary James Forrestal. Later on he was assigned to Allied forces in Africa, then to sea duty on a carrier that led to participating in nine major battles in the Pacific theater.

He came out of the service with the Bronze Star and Legion of Merit and the rank of lieutenant commander.

After leaving the service, Connally organized and became general manager of an Austin, Tex., radio station.

In most recent years he became attorney for the varied interests of the late oilman Sid W. Richardson and Perry R. Bass.

Austerity Program Hit By Strikers

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Waves of antigovernment demonstrations shook strike-bound Belgium Tuesday night in a determined Socialist-Communist drive to topple Premier Gaston Eyskens and crush his planned economizing. Losses of Congo revenue have driven the government to austerity.

Leaders of Belgium's mammoth Christian labor unions denounced the 8-day-old general strike as revolutionary and urged their 800,000 members to continue working.

But thousands of Socialist workers staged rallies demanding an end to the coalition government of Social Christians and Liberals.

Workers Hit

The workers contend the proposed austerity program of tax increases and cuts in welfare services will hit them hardest. Widespread walkouts have paralyzed the industrial south.

Christian union officials issued a statement declaring their unions "disapprove of the methods used by strikers which have damaged the country's economy and are contrary to democratic and trade union rules."

He called the strike "purely political."

Twenty thousand workers shouted antigovernment slogans at a rally in La Louviere, 20 miles south of Brussels. They howled down the name of Josef Ernest Cardinal Van Roey, Belgium's leading Roman Catholic prelate who has condemned the strike as unlawful.

In Roux there were cries of "To Brussels!" Demonstrations called for a march on the capital to oust Premier Gaston Eyskens and his coalition of Social Christians and Liberals.

There were more fierce words at a dozen other rallies in industrial areas, where workers are bitter at Eyskens' austerity program to offset financial losses arising from the independence of the Congo, once a rich Belgian Colony.

The situation was serious enough for King Baudouin to consider cutting short his honeymoon in Spain. A Belgian air force plane was dispatched to Seville, but palace sources said the young monarch had made no decision on whether to head home.

Despite government claims that the strike was a failure, leaders of Socialist unions, allied with Belgium's largest opposition party, called for new walkouts in American-owned and other factories in the port city of Antwerp.

Sammy Davies Expecting Baby

NEW YORK (AP)—A baby is expected next August—and they are hoping for a boy—entertainer Sammy Davis Jr. and his wife, actress Mia Farrow, announced Tuesday.

Davis, a Negro, said he and his wife, who is white, will name the child Mark if a boy and Cynthia if a girl. He said he and his wife are "the happiest two people in New York."

The couple were married Nov. 13. He is appearing at a New York night club.

Sidewalks Must Be Cleaned

RESIDENTS of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg who fail to clean their sidewalks of ice and snow are subject to prosecution under borough ordinances, they were reminded last night.

Both boroughs have ordinances providing that sidewalks of businesses and private residences must be cleaned within a reasonable time after snow stops falling — usually within 24 hours.

Police departments of both boroughs, under direction of the boroughs, are responsible for enforcement of the ordinances.

Queries regarding the ordinances were addressed to Borough Managers Harold E. Snyder of Stroudsburg and Sterling Cramer of East Stroudsburg after The Daily Record received numerous reports of dangerously icy sidewalks in the two boroughs.

Deer Take Seen 'Reasonably High'

THE NUMBER of deer taken during 1960 seasons was described as "reasonably high," a preliminary report by Pennsylvania Game Commission disclosed.

This appraisal was given by the state's wildlife officials after reviewing estimates submitted by Game Protectors soon after the close of the recent season.

As usual, weather and other factors contributed toward the success or curtailment of the whitetail harvest.

Highlights

These were highlights of the seasons:

Antlered Deer — During the first week of season the weather was generally mild and conditions underfoot were dry and noisy. During the last five days of the "buck" season, fairly deep snow, coupled with extreme cold and drifted-shut or hazardous rural and woodland roads hampered the hunter's movements. These conditions caused more than the normal fall-off in hunter activity during the final days of the season.

In some parts of the state the number of persons seeking bucks was thought to be a little lower than during the season of 1959. Hunter behavior was termed "quite good," as a rule. There were the usual apprehensions for unsafe shooting, loaded guns in vehicles, antlerless deer killed and untaxed deer.

Antlerless Deer — The '60 antlerless season and license allocation was designed to result in a smaller harvest than the kills of the preceding three seasons. The harvest of antlerless deer was therefore estimated as considerably less than that of the 1959 season. Reasons given for the lower kill were: Fewer licenses issued ($71,550 in 1959 compared to 230,050 in 1960); the one-day 1960 season and less antlerless deer in some localities.

Forced

Reports told that, in many forested areas, dangerously slippery or snow-blocked roads forced hunters to seek their deer on marginal or farm lands. Again during this season, in most areas, the snow provided

Dear Abby

There Are Always Two Sides

Dear Abby: My husband and I have had an argument going on about you for several years.

I say you are a man and that picture and pen name you use is all a front. You always seem to take the man's part, and never give us women a break. Come clean. You are a man, aren't you?

JANET

Dear Janet: Please read the letter below...

Dear Abby: Just what have you got against men? I'll bet some guy dumped you over over years ago and you've hated men ever since. I'd like to see you side with a man once and admit that some of these problems can be the woman's fault. But of course you never will, because all you dames stick together.

BRUCE

Dear Bruce: Please read the letter above.

Dear Abby: I have been married only a year and my husband can't keep his eyes off other women. He says he just "likes people"—but they are always females. I have bawled him out, acted hurt and even tried to make him jealous. Nothing works.

He gets plenty of affection at home and I am considered a good-looking woman myself, so what makes him act like this, and what can I do about it?

DISTURBED

Dear Disturbed: His male hormones make him act like this and there is nothing you can do about it. Some men just like to "look"—which is harmless. (It could be a hold-over from the days when they were still shopping.) When a man stops appreciating a good-looking woman, he will stop appreciating you. Grin and bear it.

Dear Abby: I started going steady with Wayne after knowing him three weeks. He doesn't go to my school so I really don't know him very well. I received a phone call from a girl who said she had gone steady with Wayne for a year and that I broke them up.

I never met this girl but I hear she doesn't have a very good reputation. Wayne says to forget it, as he hardly knows her, but she has had a crush on him for years. Who should I believe? She keeps calling me and I am getting nervous. I am only 17 and have never fought over a boy and don't want to fight over this one. I am inexperienced in such matters. Can you help me?

BOTHERED

Dear Bothered: You should not go steady with a boy you know as slightly as Wayne. If he proves to be trustworthy in other situations, then believe him. Refuse to talk to the girl on the phone. She sounds like a bitter little trouble-maker.

Dear Abby: I have been a widow for two years and have a 12-year-old son who is causing me problems. He won't do any work around the house, talks back to me and does as he pleases. I never spanked any of my children (I have 5) as their father always took care of that with a razor strop which still hangs in the bathroom. I don't use it because I wouldn't know how hard or even how long to hit him. Also I doubt if it would do much good through his thick trousers and I can't take his pants off, (can I?). Is he too old to be spanked now?

NEEDING ADVICE

Dear Needing: Once your child gets away with talking back and doing as he pleases, it is almost impossible to regain authority. I don't recommend striking a child, with or without trousers. The boy needs the friendship, understanding and discipline of an adult male. Perhaps a relative, teacher or clergyman could guide him.

Temporary Detour On West Main St.

A TEMPORARY DETOUR has been put into effect on West Main St., Stroudsburg while J. H. Beers Inc. constructs steel beams over the Stroudsburg Thruway overpass.

The detour will remain in effect from 8 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. daily for next two days. However, the road barricades are removed after working hours.

A spokesman for the company said 20-ton steel beams are being erected at the overpass. Huge cranes used in the lifting of the beams block part of the route. Instead of detouring traffic around the machines, the street was temporarily closed during daytime.

Rerouted Traffic has been rerouted via Bridge St., and Route 611.

Weather permitting, this first phase of the construction will be finished by Thursday night, it was reported.

A new temporary detour will be reestablished in about two weeks in order that the next phase of the job will be completed.

Three Hurt In Second Of Two Crashes

NO ONE WAS hurt in an accident involving two cars and a truck on Route 209 early last night, but three people were injured shortly afterward when their car was struck from the rear as they approached the accident. The scene was about five miles west of Stroudsburg. Five vehicles, two tractor-trailer trucks and three automobiles were involved in the two separate accidents. The first occurred about 4:20 p.m. and the second several minutes later.

The first mishap involved a tractor-trailer driven by Norman H. Hoppes, 31, of Tamaqua RD 3; a coupe operated by Rosemary Moore, Box 47, Sciota; and the third vehicle by Calvin B. Kunkle, 28, Stroudsburg RD 2.

State Police reported that Kunkle and Moore were slowing down for traffic on Route 209 when the Hoppes truck struck the Moore car which in turn hit the Kunkle automobile. Total damage was estimated at $300. Trooper Evans Chaplin investigated.

The second accident happened as a result of the traffic tieup resulting from the first collision.

A tractor truck driven by John F. Zurko, 28, of Walnut St., Freeland, rammed into the rear of an automobile driven by Raymond E. Murray, Sharlotte, Vt. Murray was slowing down as he approached the earlier accident.

Legislature Had Problems 'Newshawk' Finds In Probe

By TONY CESARE

HARRY was indignant that he didn't have the full story yesterday. He worked hard and finally phoned to tell that he had garnered some more political news.

"Listen, Harry, you can't write for the emotional few, you have to write for all the people, give all the facts, understand?" I said to him.

Yesterday he told me that the Pennsylvania Legislature had set a record during 1960 for spending more time doing less work than any other session in Pennsylvania history.

Harry is Harry Newshawk, a free-lance scribe with a keen sense of feeling. He had reliable sources for his report. But the story annoyed some readers. They claimed reasons for these actions weren't listed. "Politics is tough to write about, boss," he said.

"There are always two sides to any story, but this is especially true of political stories."

There Are Reasons

"I checked into the matter like you told me, boss. The story is correct but there are reasons for this unique record which should be disclosed for the benefit of all readers.

"A change in the state constitution became effective in Gov. Lawrence's administration.

"This legislature was the first under the constitutional amendment authorizing annual sessions. Therefore it had little to do when it convened Jan. 5.

"The amendment," he said, "limited the session to consideration of laws regarding appropriations and revenue. A two-year budget already had been approved by the 1959 session."

Harry named as some of the reasons.

"The constitutional amendment to have yearly sessions instead of biennial was made by the people," Harry remarked. "They passed the referendum

In 1959 to have annual sessions, boss."

Fiscal Affairs

"About the only business at hand was fiscal affairs," Newshawk declared.

"Okay, Harry," I said, "the new Legislature will convene on Jan. 3. It is a whole new year. You watch the proceedings, and let me know what you learn."

"I guess it was the change from biennial sessions to yearly ones that caused some of the business curtailment," Harry reported.

"Yeah, yeah, Harry! Okay, Harry!" I said. "How about if I change my name to Harry Getnews, boss. Then I can also start with a clean slate, huh?" he queried.

"Anyway you like it Harry, is okay with me," I concluded.

Now is the time to erect an enduring Memorial, an appropriate expression of love and respect to those near and dear.

Nuclear Controls

Even with a friendly nation such as Israel there is certain to be apprehension over the spread of atomic military capability beyond the existing "nuclear club."

Of course, Western leaders have long felt that such an extension was inevitable in the absence of international controls over nuclear weapons. Israel has issued a formal denial of weapons-type research, saying its atomic development program is entirely peaceful.

But Russia's refusal to agree with the United States and Britain on atomic controls leaves the field open for other nations to strive for a nuclear arsenal. In the absence of a Big Three agreement, for example, France built her atomic bomb as a matter of self-interest.

Similarly, Israel could cite vital security considerations in the Middle East. And if need be, Israel and France both could offer reasons of valid self-interest for going into an atomic partnership, if that is what they have done.

In that context, too, President Nasser of the United Arab Republic might well consider the reports of Israel's nuclear progress as sufficient to warrant an appeal of his own to his Soviet allies.

Conceivably this could set a worldwide pattern for atomic weapons to become a factor in regional disputes between lesser powers.

To all this can be added the perilous prospect of Red China gaining a nuclear arms capability, with all the ominous implications that would have not alone for the West but for the Soviets themselves.

Israeli reports may disturb Washington, but the distress should be much greater in the Kremlin. The Soviets at last may realize that their own self-interest lies in agreeing to equitable nuclear controls while the opportunity still exists.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Steel, Anyone?

A reader suggests that the Federal Government get the steel mills back to full-capacity production by "buying" half their output with government bonds.

This "surplus steel" would be used to build all those schools, hospitals, public buildings, highways and weapons we are told we need so badly, as well as to aid the backward countries. There would be steel enough to satisfy every demand.

Obviously, this venture to the far reaches of the New Frontier has much to commend it. But we suspect that even if a federal steel agency were created, there might still be too much steel. For one thing, ambitious citizens, assured of a market, might borrow an idea from the Chinese Communists and build backyard blast furnaces.

So, we think the government ought to plan on using some of the extra steel to build big warehouses, in which it could store the rest of the surplus. Then, if I-beams piled up, it could issue "steel stamps" to needy folk who want to build garages and the like. It might even sell steel back to the producers at a discount, and let them melt it down to make more steel.

The thought of all those steel mills humming at 100 per cent of capacity, and of all those ingots stored neatly to the rafters, is really exciting. The wonder of it is, with the government's farm program working so splendidly, that somebody didn't think of a steel agency years ago.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Do We Know?

To fill out my knowledge on steel, the question I asked is: "What is the amount of money the U. S. has spent on the building up of steel plants in other countries since 1939?"

The researcher put on the job reports:

The question is much more complex than I realized because no such study has been undertaken by the Department of Commerce, the Department of State, or to their knowledge any other organization.

Some years ago, the Business and Defense Services Administration of the Department of Commerce undertook an extensive four-month survey of direct financial assistance to foreign iron and steel industries by the U. S. Government and the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (World Bank) for the years 1940-1956.

This figure, which is included in my final tabulation, is the only concrete figure available. The other numbers listed below are often little more than educated guesses, as I will explain.

Presently those firms which invest American money abroad in the general category of steel are the World Bank, Export-Import Bank, Development Loan Fund, International Finance Corporation, and International Cooperation Administration. To date the Development Loan Fund has not spent money for building or expanding steel plants; however, they expect to complete negotiations for a $250,000,000 Turkish steel plant before the end of the year.

The following is a breakdown of these agencies and the amounts of money each has spent for "building up of steel plants since 1939":

Department of Commerce Survey, $796,588,000. Includes all U. S. money for the years 1940-56.

World Bank, $92,688,000. This is not an exact figure in that World Bank funds contain other than American dollars. It is only estimated that 48 per cent of their money is dollars. Since 1956, the bank has loaned $193.1 million for foreign steel improvements; 48 per cent of this would be the American portion.

International Finance Corp., $2,698,000. This organization has loaned $7,293,000 for foreign steel build-up. Approximately 37 per cent of their funds is American dollars.

Export - Import Bank, $189,100,000. This figure does not include 1939. Their statistics department advised that the '39 tabulation is not available and could be calculated only after 12 months of research.

International Cooperation Administration, $7,049,120. This is also little more than a derived figure because ICA does not break down loans according to specific purpose. To determine exactly what portion of their funds were used to promote steel plants, one would have to examine their 1200 projects undertaken between '36 and '59. ICA funds definitely used for steel plant build-up are reflected in the total figure. Other of their loans which may or may not have a bearing on the steel industry are listed under such general categories as: (not included in my total)

General Industry Improvements (of all industries) $120,000; General Industry development, $1,789,000; Small and medium industry development (of all industries) $8,750,000; General Industry expansion, $4,624,000; Industries - general - long-term loans, $3,611,000; Development of selected industries, $399,000; and so on for 30 pages.

Unless one examines the individual loans, you cannot determine what portion went to the steel industry. These figures do not include 1960; they are not available at present. The total is, $1,088,123,120.

Unfortunately, (as I said) this is not an accurate figure nor could an accurate tabulation be made without a great deal of research. Also, it does not reflect other factors such as investment by private banks, investment by American corporations, or American industry.

From this report by a competent research man, I take it that nobody knows precisely how much we gave away with regard to steel and what effect our efforts in this direction to aid various nations have had on our economy.

We only know that more than 4,000,000 Americans are now unemployed and that the number is rising. What effect has bringing new competitive steel operations into existence had on this increase in unemployment?

Try and Stop Me

—by Bennet Cerf

In these days of bitterness over the segregation issue, this story from North Carolina is particularly welcome. A little white boy received permission from his mother to bring two classmates—one white, one colored—home for supper. When they arrived, the youngster pulled his mother aside and told her, "In case you are wondering, ma, the one with the checked shirt is the colored boy."

'How Did I Ever Get Hooked Into This?'

The Pennsylvania Story

State Costs Up

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — It's admittedly a frightful thought at this time of year—but the simple fact is that Pennsylvanians stand an excellent chance of having just a little less money in their pockets by Christmas 1961.

This does not imply of course that a tremendous theft spree is in the offing (although it might be called that, depending on how the individual looks at it) but it does mean that Pennsylvania's taxpayers would do well to watch the "pay-out" program to be mapped out for them during the upcoming 1961 session of the Legislature.

The salient fact is that the cost of government in the Keystone State consistently has gone up and up—and there certainly is little reason to believe it will suddenly go down during the coming year.

It will be recalled incidentally, that during the final stamping of the two-year biennial budget in the 1959 session, it was the anti-administration legislative bloc in the Senate that at that time clipped the Lawrence Administration budget by some $40 million.

With that anti-administration bloc now reduced to a comparatively ineffectual component, where will the brakes be in 1961?

On top of all this, when lawmakers gather around that legislative festive board for their 1961 grunt-and-groan affair, they will be faced with the now inescapable fact that they may well have to make up nearly $100 million in deficiencies—for example, around $55 million in high-running relief and some $20 million in education alone.

On top of all this is that $10 million deficit of the last two years of the preceding Leader Administration, dangling on the ledge.

It had been planned by the Lawrence Administration when it took office to wipe out this deficit over a two-year period, but even this will not transpire now. While a goodly portion is expected to be knocked off, declining revenues will not make it possible to completely clear the fiscal decks on this score as originally envisioned.

Up to this point no funds have been considered for "new" programs to be advanced by the Lawrence Administration—and no administration ever goes along without some sort of new program or idea that costs money!

And then of course there are those programs mandated by earlier legislatures requiring constantly increasing expenditures that must be carried out. Perhaps it isn't too difficult to understand why the money changers at the forthcoming session will be at a premium.

When you come right down to it—who are the money changers that will have to be tapped?

The answer is clear and concise: Pennsylvania's eager horde of taxpayers. No one yet has been able to devise a satisfactory means of producing the needed tax dollars otherwise.

Thus while the yule season of giving is upon Pennsylvania, this is perhaps as appropriate a time as any to get them into the "mood" for the coming year.

Currently the Keystone State is operating on a two-year biennial (general fund only) budget of $1.7 billion.

There are strong indications the billion-dollar-a-year general fund expenditure "goal" will be reached next year, as Pennsylvania goes on a new year-to-year budget basis for the first time under its present constitution.

Something to look forward to next year? There's plenty in the offing. Watch it grow beginning next month!

How many remember in 1920 when a New Jersey aviator was forced to land in Arlington Heights? The emergency landing was caused by ice forming on the wings of his airplane.

Shirley Temple signed a long-term contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. She was to take a one year vacation before beginning to make pictures.

Crown Prince Olaf and Princess Margaret of Norway left the White House in Washington, D. C. They had been the Christmas guests of President and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Off The Record

Tommy Shanley, the Stroudsburg drummer boy, has an unique idea that might aid trucks coming down Foxtown Hill before turning into Broad St., Stroudsburg.

Shanley proposes an uphill ramp, starting at the Broad St. turn to allow trucks to lose their momentum and come to a halt.

This, he says, will cut down accidents and let those drivers who cannot make the sharp swing into Broad live a little longer.

Sounds like good reasoning.

"Shadow" Owens, the Penn Stroud host, must be losing his memory.

The other day "Shad" rushed home to see part of the Philadelphia Eagles and Green Bay Packers NFL championship game on TV. However when he reached his abode he found out that the tilt was blacked out on "his" Channel 3 and was forced to run back again to the hotel to see the finish on Channel 4, the New York station.

In between rushes back and forth, the smiling good-will man missed all of the scoring plays.

Here's a real Christmas story. In the spring of 1941, Jimmie Warner, 12, was shot accidentally while target-shooting.

The youth was rushed to General Hospital in Wilkes-Barre. Special blood plasma was needed and none was available in the Baron City.

A fast auto trip to Philadelphia secured the precious plasma. It was brought back in time to save the life of Jimmie in Wilkes-Barre.

That Christmas, Jimmie's father, Robert, of Pocono Lake, cut down the nicest tree on his farm and put it up on the hospital's front lawn.

Every year since, the best tree on the Warner land has ended at Wilkes-Barre General.

This year's "gratitude tree" is a 30-foot balsam, as fresh and green as the gratitude of the grateful father.

The Allen-Scott Report

Johnson's First Job

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — Vice President-elect Lyndon Johnson already has his first important foreign mission.

It is to act as the personal representative of President-elect Kennedy at the Jan. 31 inauguration of Brazil's new President Janio da Silva Quadros. Kennedy and Johnson agreed on that at their conference last week.

Two factors were behind this backstage decision:

(1) Johnson, who speaks Spanish, is widely and favorably known in South America, primarily because of his cordial relations with a long succession of Mexican leaders. (2) The special importance Kennedy and Johnson attach to Latin America. Johnson's official visit to Brazil will be the first step in a broad-scale program to develop closer ties throughout the southern hemisphere.

Originally, Kennedy considered attending Quadros' inauguration. But that plan had to be dropped because of the increasing urgency of a number of pressing problems, particularly the spreading business recession and the continued outflow of U.

S. gold, and the virtual certainty that such a trip would lead to heavy pressure on Kennedy to visit other foreign visits, especially to Europe.

So with Quadros' inauguration taking place only 11 days after Kennedy becomes President, he turned to his running mate and asked him to undertake this important good will mission.

In doing that, Kennedy disregarded an intriguing recommendation from Secretary of State Herter.

He proposed President Eisenhower in a memorandum (among a number of others) to his successor, Dean Rusk. That was the last heard of it.

In the Kennedy-Johnson conference, they discussed other foreign missions the latter will undertake. Kennedy stressed he is eager to use Johnson and other notable Americans for this purpose as he feels that he and Rusk should not spend their time and energy "flitting around the world."

Others Kennedy mentioned for important foreign missions are former President Truman and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

Quadros' inauguration will take place in Brasilia, the spanking new capital of his country. He is 43 years old, the same age as Kennedy, and the former Governor of Sao Paulo, the major industrial province of Brazil. A successful businessman turned spell-binder, Quadros has an outstanding record for clearing out corruption, insisting on a balanced budget, and battling both leftists and rightists.

After Quadros' landslide election over Marshal Henrique Lott, Brazil's top military leader, President Eisenhower invited him to Washington. But Quadros went to Europe instead.

He has made some friendly statements about Cuban dictator Fidel Castro. But so far, Quadros has not gone beyond this lip service.

However, while in Europe, he dropped hints that his Administration will recognize both Russia and Red China. Also that Brazil is likely to join the neutralist camp in the United Nations led by India, Egypt and Yugoslavia.

Sign of the Times—George Allen, genial and bulky friend of Presidents Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower, is prominently displaying a very interesting book on his desk.

It is titled "How To Play Touch Football"—the favorite recreation of President-elect Kennedy and members of his family.

To amused visitors, Allen explains with a chuckle, "Sure, I'm taking up this game. If it's good for the Kennedy's, it ought to be good for me. And there is absolutely nothing to those reports that I'm giving up public life. I'm still a young man. I'm this side of 70."

Foreign Flashes — Canterbury's Archbishop Fisher, who recently made church history by visiting Pope John XXIII as retiring in 1961. His most likely successor is Archbishop Arthur Ramsey, of York, who also favors cordial ties with the Vatican.

Chinese Nationalist newspapers on Formosa are lauding the appointment of Dean Rusk as secretary of state in the Kennedy cabinet. The Chiang Kai-shek-controlled press is hailing him as an able diplomat "who is aware of the communist danger, and whose views in general are sound and valid."

Italy's President Gronchi and Marshal Tito, communist ruler of Yugoslavia, will exchange visits in the spring. That was agreed on during the recent Rome visit of Foreign Minister Koca Popovic. Until the last few years, the two countries were long-time enemies.

U. S. commanders in South Korea are greatly disturbed over the forced retirement of a number of that country's battle-tested military leaders. U. S. authorities feel these shrews are motivated by partisan politics. Gen. Carter Magruder, both U. S. and United Nations commander, has privately criticized this development to Korean officials. And Gen. Williston Palmer, director of military aid, voiced blunt public disapproval. But these protests have produced no results so far.

From The Realm Of Stamps

The four-cent Patrick Henry "Credo" to be issued Jan. 11 at Richmond, Va., will be printed in green and brown.

The symbolic device on this credo will be a flaming torch representing liberty and freedom.

The famous words of Patrick Henry, "Give me liberty or give me death," will be the quotation over his signature. Frank P. Conley prepared the basic designs of all six credo stamps.

The pictorial first day cancellation will show St. John's Episcopal Church in Richmond, where Henry spoke before the Second Virginia Convention. This convention was held at the church because it was the largest available meeting place at that time (1775).

Patrick Henry was active in presenting and supporting resolutions for arming the Virginia Militia, regarding war as inevitable. Conservatives opposed such resolutions as promoting whereupon Henry closed his supporting speech with the words: "Is life so dear or peace so sweet as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it, Almighty God! I know not what course others may take, but as for me, give me liberty or give me death!"

Social Security Guide

Q. I purchased a small store in 1960 and had a net profit of $3000. How do I receive credit for these earnings under social security?

A. You must file a Schedule C with your 1960 income tax return and pay the social security S/E tax on your net earnings. The bottom portion of your Schedule C will be forwarded by the Internal Revenue Service to the Social Security Administration so that your net earnings can be credited to your social security account. Incidentally your tax rate is 4 1/2%, so you owe Uncle Sam $135.00.

Q. I had self-employment earnings of $4000 as a dentist in 1960. How much social security tax must I pay?

A. You must pay a social security tax of 4 1/2% on all your self-employment earnings up to $4800. The tax on net earnings of $4000 would be $180.00.

Q. How can I determine if my agricultural wages have been reported properly?

A. If you want a statement of your Federal old-age and survivors insurance account, secure from your local district social security office Form OAR-7004 "Wage Statement Request" and mail it to the Social Security Administration, Baltimore, Md. Upon receiving this card they will furnish you, without cost, your earnings for each of the past 3 years, your total earnings since you first worked under social security and, if specifically requested, the number of quarters of coverage you have earned.

Q. I purchased a small grocery in July 1960 and have been operating it since. When do I make a report of my earnings for social security credit?

A. You must report your earnings on or before April 15, 1961, to the District Director, Internal Revenue Service, if you had net earnings of $400 or more in 1960. This report is made as a part of your income tax return on Schedule C. The tax rate is 4 1/2% of your net profit up to $4,800.

Just Between Us

One of the stories today reads "No Leisure Hour until Jan. 11" and I guess that's about right for most of us. Such a helter and a skelter an exchanging of Christmas presents at the stores.

Such a dilapidated refrigerator full of bones and bits and dabs of things that nobody wants to eat. Such an overflowing dirty clothes hamper and such leaning towers of dirty towels.

There's only one thing that's more exciting to do during the holidays than at other times and that's to empty the vacuum cleaner. You get such glittering dust full of silver rain and broken Christmas tree balls and bits of red ribbon and pine needles and scraps of bright paper.

But unless you get up and do the housekeeping by the dawn's early light it doesn't get done. At least around our house which reminds me for all the world of the tree outside the window.

Yesterday morning the old apple tree looked as if it had leaved out again but the leaves were birds—grosbeaks, I think, although none of them stayed still long enough to be identified for certain.

They hopped and fluttered and changed places and then changed trees and came back again in such a mad confusion that it looked as if the whole tree were being blown by some invisible force that didn't move another thing.

Then without warning, they were gone, and the tree stood empty-handed and forlorn again. In just such twittering, jittering, shifting flocks do the young people come and go—while I stand there—enchanted but also confused and bewildered and wishing that this whole week could be slowed down somehow so that I could keep up with whatever is going on.

Single Gals Remember: Happiness Attracts Men

By Anne Heywood
"Everybody around me is full of the Merry Christmas spirit," a young woman writes. "But I am sorry to say it is hard for me to share in it. In fact, I am having increasing difficulty enjoying any holiday, because the truth is I hate my job."
"It is a perfectly good job, in a big company, with all kinds of benefits. But the fact of the matter is that I don't want to work—I want to be married."
Loves Housework
"I love everything about a house—sewing, fixing it up, even cleaning—and it is all I can do to put up with this job."
"The knowledge that I have to go back again tomorrow has hung like a heavy dark cloud over my whole holiday."
This, I am afraid, is all too typical. And it is a kind of vicious circle. The more desperately you want marriage, the more tense and unattractive you become and the less chance you have of finding marriage.
Change Job
The answer here, I think, is to get a job that has some of the domestic elements which this young woman loves.
I believe if she could take her secretarial skills into the decorating or home furnishing fields she would at least be working with things that interest her. She might also consider the food field, the hotel field or the clerical or secretarial end of a kindergarten or school.

She's Happy Working In The Field She Loves

Choose Right Field
If all you like to do is play with children, keep house and cook, it pays to get a job where these activities are involved, until such time as you have a husband and children of your own.
Because the truth is that this girl, for example, in her present situation, is unlikely ever to get married. Men are attracted to happiness, and the pale gray cloud throughout the holidays or any other days is going to find the men staying away in droves.

fun as a home of her own. But I do know that it will perk her up and give her more interest in living. And men will be far more apt to come into her life as a result.

The trouble is that girls of this type are frequently unwilling to make such a compromise. They want all or nothing, and they prefer to stay in the job they hate, where they might meet eligible men, rather than take a job, as one client put it, "decorating luckier women's homes."

Feelings Show Through
They don't believe that the way they feel inside shows on the outside. They are convinced that if they dress up and act gay they will look happy and attractive. But they don't fool anyone—especially the men.
It seems to me that happiness is our natural birthright and that subconsciously most of us know it.
And so, if you, like so many others, find yourself miserable in the middle of the Yuletide festivities, make a resolution to do something about it instead of resigning yourself to the misery as natural under the circumstances.

Raisin Pudding Ideal Winter Fare

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Newsfeatures Food Editor
Less rich than plum pudding, although it's made with suet, this steamed raisin pudding is one of the most satisfying winter desserts.

If you can manage it, make up the pudding and steam it just before serving. This way the texture is wonderfully light. But if you do have to reheat the dessert, you'll find it still utterly delicious though not quite so fluffy.

The lemon sauce that accompanies the pudding is thickened with flour, so don't expect the clear effect that such a sauce, made with cornstarch, achieves.

Steamed Raisin Pudding
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon each cinnamon and clove
1 egg
1/2 cup sugar
2 tablespoons dark molasses
1 cup finely chopped suet
1 1/4 cups seedless raisins
1 cup hot water

Sift together the flour, soda, salt and spices. Beat egg until thick and ivory colored; mix with sugar, molasses, suet and raisins (rinsed in hot water and drained). Stir in sifted dry ingredients, then hot water. Turn into buttered 1-quart mold. Place on rack in large kettle, having boiling water come up to half the depth of the mold. Replenish with boiling water, if necessary, during steaming period.

Keep kettle covered and steam 1 1/2 hours, having water bubble gently. Serve hot with Lemon Sauce.

Lemon Sauce
5 Tablespoons sugar
2 1/2 tablespoons flour
1 Tablespoon butter
2 cups boiling water
Grated rind and juice of 1 large lemon

Salt
Stir together thoroughly the sugar and flour in a 1-quart saucepan. Add butter. Gradually stir in boiling water. Cook and stir constantly over moderate heat until thickened. Stir in lemon rind and juice and salt to taste. Serve hot.

For seasoning addicts, garlic comes in the same convenient packaged form as instant minced onion; a dry seasoning mixture for use in preparing Spanish rice.

For salad sorcerers, an Italian-type dressing made with corn oil, vinegar, lemon juice, garlic and other herbs; a new onion-flavored salad dressing mix accompanied by a cruet for mixing and serving; a creamy dressing especially for cole slaw.

For thirst-quenching, frozen beverage concentrates in four flavors—strawberry, grape, raspberry and pineapple—each with lemon juice added and no artificial flavor or color.

For meat- and -potatoes people, all cuts of meat are given tenderizing treatment by a meat packer. Now oven-roasting, broiling and charcoal grilling may be used for any of these tenderized cuts—including those ordinarily delegated to the stew pan or pot-roast kettle.

For quick cooks, frozen candied yams.

For cookie makers, small spice-flavored candy-type pieces. Like their semi-sweet

Young Moderns Can Find Some New Resolutions

Now is a good time to list resolutions for the New Year. We may find it difficult to remember them as 1961 progresses, but some headway is made if we can be conscious of our personalities without becoming goody-goody.

Here are some ideas to mull over:

• I will not be a joiner; (a) because "everyone is doing it," (b) if it causes a loss of dignity, (c) if the organization is secret because it would not be acceptable to most people.

• I will respect my parents' judgment; (a) if they have cautioned against parking in lonely spots, (b) want to meet my escort, (c) warn against visiting off-beat places.

• I will not be a pipeline; (a) if friends confide in me, (b) if I'm told something that is hearsay, (c) if I know that an unpleasant situation will arise concerning a friend who hasn't been told.

• I will not go along with beatnik philosophy and; (a) resent people who conform to regulations, (b) live without a goal, (c) become careless in my dress.

• I will not jump at a last-minute date; (a) if an evening of study is necessary, (b) if the family expects me to be on hand for an important occasion, (c) if a group of girls have been depending on my presence at a hen party.

• I will not rebel against authority; (a) running down my parents to others, (b) becoming disgruntled with school officials; (c) hating all adults who do not agree with my point of view.

• I will not be a boy snatcher; (a) Trying to snare a boy from another girl for the sake of the challenge, (b) Inviting a boy out when I know he has a one-and-only, (c) planning a social engagement for the express purpose of attracting another girl's beau.

• I will not be insular; (a) I'll help less fortunate friends if I am able, (b) assist in community and campus projects for worthy causes, (c) lend a helping hand to less brainy classmates.

• I will not be a prude; (a) I'll try to make friends, not elude them, (b) I'll accept invitations from friends I like, even if they don't measure up to me socially, (c) I will not dampen party plans because I don't like my friend's invited guests.

• I will not brag about my assets; (a) if I have a larger wardrobe than my friends, (b) if my allowance is bigger, (c) if

Housewives Wooed By TV In 1960

Undoubtedly 1960 will be noted as the year in which the husbands came to the housewife's living room.

During this election year when the American woman held the most powerful voting potential of her suffrage history, two major party candidates for President of the United States first appeared on television together to discuss the campaign issues.

They came, too, at a time when television was under sharp attack from many quarters. There had been the disclosures that some quiz shows were rigged, that payola—a show business phrase that soon went into public domain—was rampant. The industry was criticized for the low calibre of its entertainment programs, for its emphasis on violence and crime.

During the year, the industry, particularly TV networks, sought to repair its reputation by contrasting their efforts on public affairs programming.

But it was a pretty uninspiring and uninspired year as far as the entertainment programs, the backbone of the medium, was concerned. The daily fare consisted of large doses of westerns, crime shows and situation comedies, often so similar it was hard to tell one from another. True, there were some specials—an especially effective program by Harry Belafonte or Fred Astaire, once in a while a treat like the recent two-hour version of "Macbeth."

But through it all, the viewing public made it pretty plain what it wanted from TV—pure escape entertainment.

• I will not brag about my assets; (a) if I have a larger wardrobe than my friends, (b) if my allowance is bigger, (c) if

Water Gap Children Entertain

Delaware Water Gap—Parents and friends of the children in the Delaware Water Gap School pronounced every child a star in the Christmas entertainment presented at the school last week.

The first two grades of Mrs. Lillian Marshall as a rhythm band opened the program and sang three Christmas songs with Clayton Bush, Dagmar Matos, Joseph Rattman as soloists, a trio of Jonathan Seely, Ricky Shoemaker, and Dagmar; Dagmar, Jonathan and Charlene Miller.

The chorus included Bonita Smolak, Judy Drake, Earl Werkheiser, Sandra Jennings, Cynthia Carlton, Dinah Widows, Bruce Davis, Joseph Kelper, Warren Nash, Grace Bush, David Wilson and Peggy Smith.

The third and fourth grades of Mrs. Alys Morton featured original poems composed by the class or by individuals in it. Nelson Nash read the class poem; Frank Davis, Michael Siproth, Christine Margretta, Richard Williams and Doris Widows read their own.

Music included piano solos by Ricky Sutton, Frank Davis and Roxanne Kaiser; a recitation by the class "Week Before Christmas" with Santa in the person of Bobby Heiler arriving by sleigh pulled by three reindeer.

The group answered in song the questions of "What is Christmas" given by Ricky Sutton and Doris Widows with solo parts by James Anthony, Bruce Posten; a trio of Carol Relsenwitz, Michael Siproth and Martin Counterman. Other singers were Edward Funk, Michael Nase, Ricky Snow, Kerry Miller, James Singer, Joan Smith and Patricia Werkheiser.

The program was accompanied by Mrs. John Pentz and Mark Williams was the announcer.

The classrooms were decorated with angels in frizzes over the blackboard and Christmas cards on the pillars.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Richard Widows, Mrs. Clayton Bush, Mrs. Louis Smolak, Mrs. James Anthony and Mrs. James Williams.

Arlington Heights Pupils Entertain

"The Story of Christmas" was the title of the Christmas program presented by pupils of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades of the Arlington Heights Elementary School last week.

The program, in the form of a musical, was directed by Mrs. John Pentz Jr. and Ralph Harrison with the assistance of the teachers.

The decorated classrooms were open until 9:30 for the visitors.

Sound Is A Sensation Or That Which Is Heard

THE DICTIONARY tells us that sound is the sensation of hearing, or that which is heard. Sound is produced by vibrating matter.

In order to determine what we mean by sound we must explain that there are two ways in which we can think of the term. Psychologically, we speak of sound in terms of what the ear hears and the brain interprets.

In the physical sense of the term, the word sound applies to the vibrations in matter which our ears receive.

In order that the sounds may get to our ears we must have a source, which is, of course, a vibrating body.

The degree of loudness of sound is difficult to measure accurately since it depends rather on the judgment of the listener, than any purely physical measurement.

Many times when we speak of the loudness of a sound, we are actually referring to the result on the ears.

There is a great difference in sounds. We say a nearby clap of thunder is loud. A whisper is soft. A cricket has a shrill high chirp. A canary has a deep growl. A large dog has a deep growl. Some people have very pleasing voices, while others are harsh and grating.

So sounds differ from each other in several fundamental ways. Actually when we talk of various sounds, we are referring to their result on the ears.

Individuals vary greatly in their sensitiveness to vibrations and in translating them accurately into terms of sound. When we think of sound we

ON THE HOUSE

By Andy Lang
AP Newsfeatures

SOMETIMES you have to spend money to save money. This is especially true in the matter of heating your house. It costs money to install weatherstripping or storm windows and doors or insulation or, better yet, all three. But there is no doubt that taking any or all of these steps will save you money in the long run.

Irrespective of budget limitations, there are a number of other things you can do to allow your heating plant to operate efficiently and thus keep your fuel bills to a minimum.

First of all, you have to make sure that the warmth generated by your oil burner or other heating unit stays in the house. Don't open outside doors and windows indiscriminately. If you sleep with the windows open, keep the bedroom door closed. Otherwise you will be gathering up your heating dollars from all over the house and sending them out into the night air by way of the open bedroom windows.

When you are cleaning and airing a room, close the door to the rest of the house. If, for instance, you are airing out the upstairs bathroom, a sure way to pull the heat out of the downstairs hall is to leave that bathroom door open.

To allow the heat to circulate properly, keep furniture away from radiators or registers. Entirely aside from fuel economy, this step will prevent the furniture joints from pulling apart.

Nearly everybody knows by now that the thermostat should be located properly to get a true reading of the house's heating needs. But we've heard differences of opinion on how much, if any, a thermostat should be lowered during the night. We asked the Oil Heating Institute for its opinion and got this reply: To conserve fuel, set the thermostat about 7 degrees below the daytime setting. And when going away for several days or more, lower the thermostat setting to 55 degrees.

Also, Mrs. Greinert is at Bud's Men's Shop, 760 Main Street, Stroudsburg every Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. (Hamilton 1-0450).

Supplies such as Batteries, Coris, etc. can be obtained any day in the week at Bud's.

A PLACE with three swimming pools, five tennis courts, a long sandy beach, an ice-skating rink, a restaurant, an outdoor dining and dancing terrace, lounging rooms, shuffleboard courts, billiard tables, a yacht basin and a junior recreation area. A summer resort? No. A new apartment house development in New York City. No wonder all the apartments were rented long before construction was completed.

THE SUPPLY of existing houses for sale is greater than at this time a year ago, principally because the time required for marketing is longer.

George S. Wagner Your Atlas Tire Dealer

So stop worrying about winter driving. Let Wagner's, Pontiac Sales & Service, Mt. Pocono, put you at ease with a set of Atlas Weatherguards. Remember! BASEBOARD PAINTING
Avoid painting the floor along with the baseboard, by using a small strip of thin cardboard as a shield. Move the shield along the floor, following the brush as it moves along the baseboard. Spillage will be caught by the cardboard, not the floor.

HEAVY DRILLING TIP
HEAVY drilling in metal calls for constant application of oil or kerosene to lubricate the bit. Time-outs can be eliminated by building a dam of putty around the drilling area and forming pool of lubricant.

EXPERIMENTAL production will begin this fall of light-wall seamless tubing that can be shipped in ribbon form and then inflated at the point of use. It is expected that this "field inflatable" will make it possible to ship the entire ductwork for the heating system of a 7-room house in a box the size of an orange crate instead of in trailer-truck loads.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Moon's aspect stresses need for extra patience and graciousness toward those who are upset or in difficulty. Do not become unduly involved in others' personal affairs.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Less fuss over annoyances; others can open way for you to get new or improved ideas across, to attain your progress in a fresh direction. Keep striving steadily, smoothly.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—You may find it harder to prove a point or reach a conclusion than usual, but those times come to all and imperturbability, restraint, forbearance have their winning place.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius)—Never believe the worst about an undertaking, and always have for the best, while also recognizing where a fallacy exists. Danger signs are up for overreaching, overdoing.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces)—Nostalgia and Pluto, travelling out each other with alternating aspects urge your true responsibility, self forward. Forge antagonism to work for peace WITH honor, justice.

YOT HOEN TODAY: many fascinating qualities for success, happiness. But them to good use daily, developing the spiritual and mental over the physical and material, focusing a thing smartly for but worldly material reasons, teachers, nothing substantial on which to build a satisfying life. Further good will, organization, charity work, where you excel. Not naturally hostile, you accept healthy, sound, unpretentious. Persistent, concentrated effort will win you where some abandon projects. Your difficult, hard work, (thrift) obtains top goals. Birthdate of: Woodrow Wilson, 28th U. S. President.

Tulane's Mason Picked As First Draft Choice

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tommy Mason, a relatively unheralded Tulane halfback, was the No. 1 pick Tuesday as the National Football League opened its player draft showing every indication of its fight for top college players.

Mason was tapped by the fledgling Minnesota Vikings who will field their first team next year. Vikings General Manager Bert Rose indicated that Mason might become part of a deal with the New York Giants by which the Vikings hoped to obtain veteran quarterback George Shaw. Rose also indicated a possible deal with the Los Angeles Rams, again for a quarterback.

Long Found
After the selection of Mason, 21-year-old Southeastern Conference star who ranked 15th nationally both in rushing and pass receiving, the draft selection quickly bogged down into a tortuous five-hour first round.

Most clubs—all equipped with telephones at their respective tables in the hotel draft room—were on the long distance lines to check whether their potential picks would sign up or already had signed with the rival American Football League.

The St. Louis Cardinals took 90 minutes before announcing they were drafting All-America tackle Ken Rice of Auburn. Baltimore took more than 35 minutes to choose Tom Matte, Ohio State quarterback.

In pre-AFL days, the NFL clubs would zip through the first two or three rounds in less than half an hour. The Canadian Leagues continue to bid actively for top American talent and they too were responsible in part for the slow-down.

Washington, using a choice from Dallas' acquired in a previous trade, took Wake Forest quarterback Norman Snead and then, using its own pick, took Illinois tackle Joe Riggins.

Reverse Order
The teams drafted in reverse order of their records in the just completed season.

Tommy Mason

Los Angeles took Marlin McKee, Southern California line-backer; the Chicago Bears drafted Mike Ditka, Pitt end; San Francisco, using a choice obtained from Pittsburgh, took Jim Johnson, UCLA back; then came Baltimore's choice of Matte; St. Louis and its choice of Rice. San Francisco picked Bernie Casey, a Bowling Green back; Cleveland, using a pick acquired from Detroit, chose Bob Crespino, Mississippi end; San Francisco, making a third pick—this one on a trade from Baltimore completed a short time earlier—took UCLA back Bill Kilmer; and Green Bay took Michigan State back Herb Adderly.

After a two-hour delay when Cleveland conferred with Dallas, Philadelphia and Commissioner Pete Rozelle, Cleveland announced it was giving Dallas its choice and the Cowboys picked Bob Lilly, All-America tackle at TCU. In return Cleveland got Cowboys tackle Paul Dickson and Dallas' first pick next year.

Philadelphia completed the round by choosing Art Baker, Syracuse back.

Aussies Win Cup

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
SYDNEY (AP)—The Davis Cup, symbol of world amateur tennis supremacy, was packed away for another year in the Australian vault Wednesday with little hope of changing its residence for the next several years.

Competition for the big international trophy now is likely to become so one-sided it may become a farce.

The Aussies clinched the cup for the ninth time in the last 11 years when Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson beat Italy's highly touted doubles team of Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola in the challenge round at the White City Stadium Tuesday 10-8, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4.

Take 3-0 Lead

This gave the cup holders a 3-0 lead in the best-of-five series and took all significance out of Wednesday's final singles in which Sirola plays Rod Laver in the opening match and Pietrangeli faces Fraser in the final. Fraser and Laver, both left-handers, captured the first-day singles.

After clinching the cup in a brisk two-hour doubles match the Australian captain, Harry Hopman, sounded a warning to future rivals by saying that his big four—Fraser, Laver, Emerson and Bob Mark—probably will remain as a Davis Cup unit for the next several years.

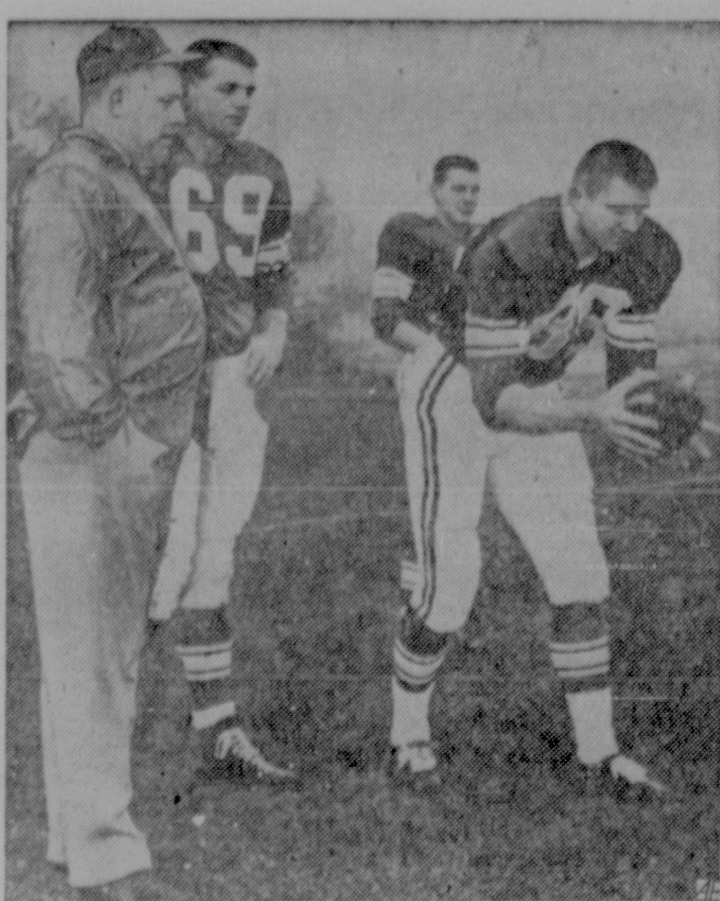

"Our outlook is very promising," said the captain whose personal record now is 10 cup triumphs in 13 campaigns.

The United States, perennial challenger before its shocking loss to Italy this year, has lost its two top players—Barry MacKay and Earl Butch Buchholz—to the pro tour and must start rebuilding its cup forces from the grass roots level.

Durocher Gets Broadcast Job

NEW YORK (AP)—Leo Durocher will return to the sports business Monday, Jan. 9, as a sportscaster for a radio network (Mutual).

Van Patrick, sports director of the network, said Durocher, former manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants, would be heard five nights a week, Monday through Friday, at 5:30 p.m. (EST).

Ohio State Holds AP Court Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For the second straight week Ohio State's unbeaten Buckeyes captured every one of the first place votes in The Associated Press basketball poll.

Jerry Lucas and Co., who ran their winning, streak to six by polishing off Loyola of Chicago and Detroit last week en route to the ECAC Holiday Festival in Madison Square Garden, drew all 36 votes from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters. The poll was based on games through Saturday, Dec. 24.

Once again it was Bradley, a near-unanimous choice for second place off its 8-0 record, who was the runner-up. Bradley beat Idaho and Cincinnati last week and has Drake and Dartmouth on this week's schedule.

Perfect Bonnie Mark
St. Bonaventure also brought a perfect record of 7-0 into the Garden for the Holiday Festival, winning its only game last week from Western Ontario. The Bonnies are third in the poll.

In the point totals, based on 10 for a first place vote, nine for a second and so on, Ohio State has a perfect 360, Bradley 319 and St. Bonaventure 231.

Indiana, in fourth place with 192 points and a 5-1 record, confines its activity this week to the Los Angeles Classic where its first round opponent is Stanford.

The leaders with won-loss records and first place votes in parentheses with points on a 10-9 basis:

1. Ohio State (36) (6-0) 360

2. Bradley (8-0) 319

3. St. Bonaventure (7-0) 231

4. Indiana (5-1) 192

5. Louisville (9-0) 187

6. Duke (7-0) 172

7. St. John's (6-0) 161

8. St. Louis (7-1) 76

9. Auburn (5-0) 60

10. North Carolina State (6-1) 41

foot-9 star was a tower of strength grabbing numerous rebounds and feeding his mates. Bob Knight, Mel Nowell, and John Havlicek were the prominent point-getters for the Buckeyes, scoring in double figures.

Tom Stith poured in 30 points in leading St. Bonaventure to victory.

Chicago Signs Scouting Pair

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cubs Tuesday announced the signing of scouts Ray Perry and John Fitzpatrick.

Fitzpatrick, 56, has been managing and coaching baseball since 1937 and has been employed by the Milwaukee Braves and New York Yankees.

Perry, 39, has been managing in the Los Angeles Dodgers organization.

Hall No Match

Seton Hall was no match for the high scoring Buckeyes, who hit 22 of their 35 shots in the first half for a spectacular 63 per cent and soared to a 48-32 halftime lead.

Jerry Lucas, Ohio State's All-America center, scored only eight points in the first half, but the 6-ty, won the 154-pound crown in the 154-pound class the previous year.

Other Winners

Two other 1959 winners, Dick Tressler of State College and Floyd Welker of Shamokin, were beaten in this year's finals. Tressler, who also won a state championship in 1958, lost to Carl Fraley of Hughesville in the 127-pound class. Welker was beaten by Phillipsburg's Jerry Twoey in the 120-pound final.

The other wrestling champions included: Bob Bell, Columbia, 95 pounds; Terry Haise, Erie Strong Vincent, 103 pounds; Doug Koch, Bethlehem, 133 pounds; George Reiser, Trinity, 138 pounds; John Carr, Hanover Twp., 145 pounds; Lee Hall, Hughesville, 165 pounds; Marshall Dauberman, Selingsgrove, 180 pounds; Jim Nance, Indiana, unlimited.

National Marks

In swimming, Tom Trethewey and his teammates on the state champion Mount Lebanon team set two national records.

Trethewey swam the 100-yard breaststroke in one minute, 46 seconds. The Mount Lebanon 200-yard medley relay team won in the record-breaking time of 1:45.5.

The Erie Strong Vincent 200-yard freestyle relay team broke Susquehanna Valley championships as well.

Beaver Falls, meanwhile, won the prestige-packed WPIAL-AA championship.

The recent football season was more noteworthy probably for the number of long winning strings that fell along the wayside. Besides Braddock, Richland Twp., Lancaster, Johnstown, Ambler and Northampton tasted defeat for the first time in over two years.

Lancaster, however, was able to salvage the important Central Penn championship.

Longest String

The defeat of these long-time winners left little Wyoming in Berks County holding the longest winning streak at season's end: 21 games.

Mike Johnson's performance on the wrestling mat earned him his measure of fame, perhaps even more than his Lock Haven schoolmate Harold (Bud) Yost, a back who was the leading vote-getter among the choices for The Associated Press All-State scholastic football team.

Johnson won the 112-pound championship in the March state finals for his third straight state wrestling title. In 1959 he was 102-pound champion and in 1958, the 95-pound titlist.

Eisenhower, of Bald Eagle-Nit-any, won the 154-pound crown in the 154-pound class the previous year.

Mount Lebanon's Tom Lindsey swam the 200-yard freestyle in 1:55.7 for another new state standard; while Dennis Goldman of Pittsburgh Peabody was similarly erasing a state mark with his 57-second effort in the 100-yard butterfly.

York's William Groff salvaged some prestige for eastern Pennsylvania swimmers by breaking the state's 100-yard freestyle mark in 50.1 seconds.

Three new state marks were set in the PIAA's track and field final last spring: Gary Meckley, Kutztown, 110 yards, 1:35.8; Dick Hart of Morrisville, 120-yard dash, 17.5 seconds; and Gene McCleary of Cornwall's Gene McCleary got off a record-breaking time of 164 feet, nine inches in the discus events. Hart's and McCleary's records were for Class B competition.

Singles Titles

Ken Baur of Erie Academy and Dennis Koch, Allentown, shared the PIAA state singles championship with Peter Myers and Joe Polin of Cheltenham and Bruce Bear and John Plankins of Lancaster the doubles title after rain wiped out the state tennis finals.

Jay Seigel of Lower Merion won the golf crown and North Allegheny the cross-country championship to complete the list of winners in PIAA-sponsored sports events.

There were no official team champions in track, wrestling, golf and tennis.

Leighton Drops Eastburg 45-39

EAST Stroudsburg High School could not hold onto a slim halftime lead and was eliminated from the Slatington Christmas Basketball Tournament Tuesday night by Leighton 45-39.

The other area entry Stroud Union was beaten 54-35 Monday by Weatherly. The Cavaliers managed only 17 points in the first half but it was enough to give them a one point halftime lead.

But Roger Zimmerman took personal charge of the Indian attack in the third period to send Leighton back in front.

High Scorer
Zimmerman was the game's high scorer with 17 points, seven of them coming in the third frame, when Leighton went from a one point deficit to a five point lead.

Glen Kane was high for East Stroudsburg, followed by Jack Fellman and Don Weisheit, each with seven. The Cavaliers led through most of the second period but their biggest lead was only three points 13-10.

East Stroudsburg still held a 21-20 lead in the third period when Leighton and Zimmerman went to work.

Zimmerman hit on a field goal to put Leighton ahead 22-21 and after Brian Farris put the Cavaliers back in front with a two pointer Rusty Miller bagged a field goal to send the Indians ahead for good.

Zimmerman added three straight points and Jim Rehrig chipped in with another two before the Cavaliers could score again.

As the period ended, Zimmerman collected his sixth and seventh points of the quarter to make it 31-26, Leighton.

It was close in the final period, with Leighton getting 14 points and East Stroudsburg 13.

Shaw Planned Only Short Stay - That Was In 1922

By GEORGE ESPER

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — After some of the tumult and the shouting had died following the Philadelphia Eagles' victory over Green Bay for the National Football League title, a man walked up to Coach Buck Shaw and said: "I want to thank you very much for giving Ed a chance to play."

The man was the father of Ed Khayat, a castoff from the Washington Redskins in whom Shaw found confidence and turned into a front-line defensive tackle. Perhaps the incident points up one of the reasons Shaw was so successful in bringing the Eagles from a cellar dwelling club in 1958 to a world champion this year.

No Bad Tales
He built team spirit by giving all a chance, by not letting players howl bad they were but rather how good they could be, by insisting he was going to have a winner even if he had to "keep one team playing, one team going and one team coming."

And the players liked Shaw for his consideration and thoughtfulness. They also knew he could be firm when he had to be. They played their hearts out for the 61-year-old silver-haired coach in winning the eastern conference title and then the world championship Monday, Philadelphia's first since 1949.

And now Shaw, after 39 years of coaching college and professional football, is bowing out with the first pro title in his career. It was a long time coming.

"You can't go any further," he said, as he prepared to fly to the West Coast shortly after the NFL draft Tuesday. He'll coach the East team in the All-Pro Bowl, then devote full time to his corugated box firm in California.

Shaw is bowing out because he feels coaching isn't conducive to his health at his age.

Has Health
"I've got my health and I want to keep it," he says.

Shaw climaxed a remarkable career which began in 1922 when he took an assistant coaching job at Nevada after graduating from Notre Dame. Notre Dame Coach Knute Rockne got the job for him and Buck never intended to stay in football because it didn't offer much security. As a matter of fact, he says, he never had planned to enter the game except at the time he couldn't find anything better to do where he could make as much money.

As he looks back now he'll tell you he stuck around for 39 years because "I always managed to be just successful enough to stay in there." And then it was too late to get out.

Footwear Decision Too Some Time

AN HOUR BEFORE game time of the National Football League Championship in Philadelphia Monday, neither the Green Bay Packers nor the Philadelphia Eagles were decided on the proper footwear for the game.

First a handful of Packers tested Franklin Field's frozen surface with cleated shoes and then another group came out with tennis shoes. The Eagles followed the same pattern, except for Bobby Walston, the club's right end and place kicking specialist, who appeared with one shoe of each type. Both clubs finally settled for cleats.

When the Eagles were introduced the loudest applause was for Norm Van Brocklin, with Tommy MacDonald and Chuck Bednarik getting the next biggest hands.

Neither Clarence nor Bob Pellegriani was in uniform. But Peaks did put on football shoes for the walk across the slippery field.

Crutches Don't Hold Pellegriani Down

Pellegriani, who will be on crutches for a few more weeks, was operated on a week ago for a torn ligament in his knee. But the injury didn't prevent the big linebacker from hobbling up and down the sidelines, rooting for his club.

In interviews after the game, Pellegriani ended his comments with "I'll be back next year."

In the second period Van Brocklin was credited with two pass attempts and one completion on one pass.

He tried to hit Walston with a quick flip over the middle but the ball bounced off defensive end Willie Davis and back to Van Brocklin, who was still behind the line of scrimmage.

Van Brocklin rolled to his right and tried to hit MacDonald. But the ball was low and MacDonald could not hold on to it.

Eagles Down To Last Linebacker

At one point the Eagles were down to their last linebacker. With Pellegriani injured, the only reserve was John Nocera, from Iowa.

When Maxie Baughan and Don Burroughs collided chasing a pass in the second period, Nocera had to fill in while Baughan rested.

Burroughs was sidelined for several plays later in the game. He tried to hit fullback Jim Taylor with a stand-up, straight on tackle but wound-up picking the paint from Taylor's helmet out of his face.

Van Brocklin was selected as the most valuable Eagle in the game by the Philadelphia writers but he was not the choice of many of the visiting writers.

Their choices were Chuck Bednarik and Ted Dean, while they thought Taylor was outstanding for the Packers.

The Packers pulled three linemen on sweeps by Taylor and Paul Hornung. Both guards and the offside tackle (away from the play) formed the interference.

Packers' Thurston Was Outstanding

Fred Thurston, the Packers' left guard was the best offensive lineman on the field. He opened the middle for Taylor and cleared the corner-backers on the sweeps to his side.

The Packers made sure that if Bednarik was going to play both offense and defense, he would get a full-workout. For some reasons, most of the Packers ground attack was directed toward Bednarik's side, even though he made tackle after tackle.

And even the pros getting excited about the "big ones." When it was over, Van Brocklin stood in the center of the Eagles' pint-sized dressing room with tears running down his face. And only a few feet away Burroughs was also fighting a losing battle against tears.

Warmath Tells Coast Scribes He Fears Washington Team

needed no time Tuesday to answer a question about what he fears most from Washington in the Rose Bowl Jan. 2.

"Experience, poise, balance and depth," said the amiable Gopher mentor.

The occasion was the annual luncheon of the Tournament of Roses for the Southern California Football Writers Chapter.

Present were the Minnesota coaches, Coach Jim Owens of Washington, tournament officials, Queen Carole Washburn and her six princesses, and dignitaries of the football world.

Owens said quarterback Bob Schloredt, his All-America of 1959 who led the Huskies to their 44-8 Rose Bowl victory over Wisconsin, has rounded back into shape and will see equal service with his other crack signal-caller, Bob Hoyer.

Schloredt was sidelined with a broken collarbone in October.

In another sidelight, it appeared that the possibility of renewal of the restricted Rose Bowl pact between the Big Ten and the Big Five conferences is dead and may remain so.

Commissioner Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson gave no indication that the Big Ten will change its mind about returning to the old contract. As it stands, Big Ten schools may play on an individual basis if invited.

Beck Signs To Play For Merces

SUNBURY, Pa. (AP) — Ernie Beck, former University of Pennsylvania All-America basketball player, has been signed to play with the Sunbury Mercuries of the Eastern Professional Basketball League. It was announced Tuesday night.

Beck, who had played with the Philadelphia Warriors and Syracuse Nationals of the National Basketball Association, will join Sunbury for its Monday night home game with Williamsport.

Big Contract
John Hunt, president of the Sunbury Basketball Association who announced Beck's signing, did not disclose terms of the contract. However, it is expected Beck will be one of the highest paid players in the league. Players are paid on a per-game basis.

Beck, 6 feet 5, was All-America in 1953, his senior year. He later went with the Warriors who traded him earlier this year to the Nats. They gave him his release. Sunbury currently is in fourth place in the eight-team league.

Shop, the first-half champs, got started on the right foot as it blanked the Draftsmen, putting on the crusher with a big 900 middle game. Harold Burkholder's 563 showed the way and Vince Shafer, still wearing a cast on his off wrist, trundled a stout 537, each with one 200. Material Control, the runnersup, battered the Lefties 4-0, with a night's high 2503, led by Don Albert's 538 and Ham LaBadie's steady anchor 313. Test Floor started with a 3-1 decision over the Welders in a low-scoring match, with Dayt Martz' 515 the only breakthrough in a losing cause. Outside shaded Office in the first and third to gain a split, as Bill Savitz rapped out a 326 to lead the latter and Chet Strunk's 495 was high for the up-and-coming Outside crew.

Bushkill League

Bob Taylor, with 186 and 509, led Turn's General Store to a 4-0 win over H. M. Place, Builder. High man for the Builder's was Harvey Howey with 487. WINDBREAK—Windbreaks offer protection against cold winds around the buildings and prevent snowdrifts. Adaptable species of evergreens and low growing shrubs make ideal windbreaks. They also serve as good wildlife areas and provide food and cover during the winter months and nesting areas in the spring. Windbreaks are included in the farm conservation plans which farmers may receive through their soil conservation district. Planning assistance is provided by the U. S. Soil Conservation Service assisting the Monroe County Soil Conservation District.

GRASSED WATERWAY—Wildlife is a conservation bonus on farms practicing good soil and water conservation. Permanent conservation measures such as waterways are ideal areas for ground nesting birds such as quail and phasants. These practices provide food and cover for wildlife and they increase the wildlife carrying capacity of the farm. Technicians of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service provide assistance to farmers through their Monroe County Soil Conservation District in establishing grassed waterways.

Legislation For Outdoor Advertising

HARRISBURG (AP) — Legislation to prescribe regulations and fees for outdoor advertising in Pennsylvania will be introduced in the 1961 session, Sen. George N. Wade, R-Cumberland, said Tuesday.

The measure provides an annual license fee of $100 for outdoor advertising firms and permit and inspection fees for each billboard. The permit and inspection fees would range from $1 to $3, depending on the size of the advertisement.

According to the draft of the proposed bill, advertising structures devoted exclusively to use by various religious, civic and charitable organizations would be exempt from the permit and inspection fees.

Co-Sponsored

Wade said the measure will be co-sponsored by Sen. Hugh J. McMenamin, D-Lackawanna.

The proposed bill applies to advertising along all public roads in the state.

The 1959 legislature considered two versions of a billboard regulation law for interstate highway areas but rejected both.

The proposed bill provides limitations on the location of billboards near parks, public structures or other advertisements, but states the provisions shall not apply to any advertising structure in use on the effective date of the act, July 1, 1962.

China Seen Having A-H Bombs

By JOHN HARBOUR
Associated Press Service Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—In six years or less a dozen nations including China will have A-bombs and H-bombs, a noted British scientist-writer said Tuesday.

"Within, at the most, 10 years some of those bombs are going off. I am saying this as responsibly as I can. That is the certainty," said Dr. C. P. Snow.

"We know, with the certainty of statistical truth, that if enough of these weapons are made — by enough different states—some of them are going to blow up," he declared.

"Through accident, or folly, or madness—but the motives don't matter."

"We are faced with an either-or, and we haven't much time," Snow told a meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Either the United States must accept a restriction of nuclear armaments, beginning, as a token, with the halting of nuclear tests, or risk nuclear catastrophe, he said.

Finite Risk

"On the one side, therefore, we have a finite risk. On the other side we have a certainty of disaster. Between a risk and a certainty, a sane man does not hesitate," Snow said.

"It is the plain duty of scientists to explain this either-or. It is a duty which seems to me to come from the moral nature of the scientific activity itself."

Scientists have the same duty regarding the benevolent powers of science, he said. For scientists know "that we possess every scientific fact we need to transform the physical life of half the world, and transform it within the span of people now living."

"I mean, we have all the resources to help half the world live as long as we do, and eat enough. All that is missing is the will. We know that," he said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of Pennsylvania members of Congress, state officials and business representatives agreed Tuesday that area redevelopment bills should have the highest priority in the new Congress.

Conferring here were Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa.; Rep. Daniel W. Scranton, R-Pa.; William L. Batt, Pennsylvania state secretary of labor and industry; William R. Davlin, state secretary of Commerce, and a delegation from the Lackawanna County Committee of the National Committee on New Jobs and New Growth.

Also present were staff members of President-elect Kennedy's special committee on area redevelopment. Batt and Davlin are members of this committee while Clark and Flood are consultants.

New Businesses Below 1959

NEW YORK (AP)—New business incorporations during the first 11 months of the year fell 5 per cent below the same period of 1959, Dun & Bradstreet Inc. said Tuesday.

The 1960 total was 167,795 compared with 176,611 a record for the period. For November new incorporations were at the lowest level of the year at 12,412. This was close to 10 per cent below October and almost 5 per cent below November 1959, the business reporting agency said.

Gets New House

BLANTYRE, Nyassaland (AP)—Supporters of Hastings Banda, Nyassaland's nationalist leader, have given the militant Malawi Congress party leader a new 10,000 pound—$28,000—house.

classroom teachers with a bachelor's degree which includes specific preparation for teaching and a salary of $15,000 or more for classroom teachers with five years of teacher preparation and 15 years of experience.

The group, largest of the five PSEA departments, met in preparation for the main business session of the convention Wednesday.

The association, which started its three-day convention Tuesday, represents some 70,000 of the state's 80,000 public school educators.

Reject Proposal

The classroom teachers rejected a proposal to require a bachelor's degree, including professional preparation and probationary teaching, for admission to the teaching profession.

The proposal was deleted from the list of resolutions after a motion by Ross McGregor, president of the Pittsburgh Teachers Association.

The department elected E. Ray Shank, 47, Norristown, its new president.

"Shank, a teacher for 26 years, said he thought the money requests of teachers sometimes was stressed too much.

"Money is necessary for us to live but the PSEA constantly works on problems that eventually will lead to making Pennsylvania the best state in the union as far as educating the child is concerned," he said.

A separate set of resolutions, based on the report of the PSEA resolutions committee will be presented to the full body of delegates at Wednesday's business session.

Bethlehem Steel Head's Statement

ARTHUR B. HOMER, chairman and chief executive officer of Bethlehem Steel Corp., yesterday issued a year-end statement looking forward to a good year for steel users in 1961. He said:

"Bethlehem Steel and the steel industry of this country face an era full of challenges. Challenges are as good for a business enterprise as they are for an individual.

"Our company is no stronger to challenges, and we are well prepared for them. Our company's facilities are ready, and our people alert in every respect, to meet the needs of customers.

No Doubts

"I have no doubts as to the future of steel, just as I have no doubts as to the future of our economy as a whole. America is going to keep on growing vigorously, and the steel industry is going to continue to play a very important role in the growth of our economy.

"I expect that in the main 1961 will be a good year for steel users, although as usual some industries will fare better than others. I am confident that the level of Bethlehem's operations will start rising before very long, and that we can look forward to a reasonably satisfactory year."

Organizers Of ILGWU Seek Status

HARRISBURG (AP) — International Ladies' Garment Workers Union organizers reported Tuesday they are seeking status as a separate union within the ILGWU.

Marvin Rogoff, Harrisburg, temporary secretary-treasurer of the proposed organization, said his group is seeking National Labor Relations Board approval for an election.

The aim of the union—to be called the Federation of Union-Representatives (FUR)—is "collective bargaining," Rogoff declared.

"We want the same kind of bargaining procedures as workers in other organizations have," said Rogoff.

No Fight

"There is no fight inside the ILGWU," he added.

Temporary president of the organization is Constantine Sedares, of Newark, N. J.

Rogoff said the proposed organization would have jurisdiction of 262 General Office staff employees in the ILGWU. They are carried as "organizers" in the union's financial report.

In a telegram to David Dubinsky, president of the ILGWU, Rogoff said his group demanded recognition as the bargaining agent for the general office workers.

"We received no reply," said Rogoff.
